Licence to Construct Works (Bore) -
Domestic & Stock purposes

General information and explanatory notes (retain for future reference)

What is a bore?

The most common type of bore is a hole which is drilled by a large drilling rig. The definition of a bore also include a sump, well, drag line or any excavation used to intercept, collect and store groundwater for the purpose of taking and using it.

Why do I need a licence to construct a bore?

Under the provisions of the Water Act 1989, any person who constructs, alters a groundwater bore greater than three metres in depth must obtain a licence to construct works prior to commencing.

What are domestic and/or stock purposes?

If you are the owner or occupier of land on which a bore is located you may have the right (sometimes called a private right) to take and use water solely for the purposes of:

- household use
- watering of stock and pets
- watering of a kitchen garden (up to 0.4 hectares)

I am constructing the bore for domestic and stock purposes what are the steps to obtaining a licence?

The process for constructing of a bore for domestic and stock purposes involves a number of steps:

- Step 1 Complete this application and lodge with G-MW along with the application fee. The application will be assessed and if approved, a licence to Construct Works will be issued and you can proceed to engage a driller to construct the bore.
- Step 2 When the bore is completed, a bore completion report must be issued to G-MW by your driller. When this report is received G-MW will register your bore for domestic and stock use and you can commence using the water

Can I take and use water from my bore when it is completed?

When the bore is constructed and equipped you may commence using the water for domestic and/or stock purposes only. However, at any time if you wish to use the water for any licensable purpose (see next question for details about licensable purposes) you must make application for a licence to take and use water and operate the works.

What type of water use is considered a licensable purpose?

A licence to take and use water is required if you intend to use the water for irrigation or for supplying a dairy shed, feedlot, piggeries or poultry farm. A licence is also required if the water is to be used on recreational or sporting fields or in conjunction with the operation of a commercial business or premises. This includes mining, aquaculture, water bottling, the provision of guest accommodation and watering commercial grounds or gardens.

My bore is in need of repair. Do I need to apply for a licence?

If you intend to make any structural changes to the bore (including deepening the bore, adding additional spear points to an existing system, repairing or replacing casings or screens) a licensed driller must be engaged to carry out the works and you must apply for a licence to alter the works.

If the bore is beyond repair you can make application for a licence to construct a new bore.

Why do I need a licence to decommission a bore?

Under the provisions of the Water Act 1989, any work conducted on a bore, including the decommissioning of a bore must not be carried out until a Licence to Decommission Works has been issued. Licensing this activity ensures that works are carried out correctly and will not pose any ongoing risks to the public safety or the environment. It also ensures that accurate records are kept in relation to the status of bores across G-MW's region.

Domestic & Stock purposes

What is the process for obtaining a decommission licence & what is the cost?

There is no application fee for a Licence to Decommission Works.

Who can decommission a bore?

In most cases where the bore is shallow and has intersected only a single aquifer system, it is acceptable for the bore owner to carry out the work. A G-MW Drilling Inspector will inspect the site when the works are complete.

The decommissioning of bores that are deep, flowing or have intersected more than one aquifer system, can be more complex and it is a requirement that the work be undertaken by a suitably licensed driller. You should contact a G-MW Drilling Inspector to determine if you need to engage a licensed driller prior to commencing any works.

How can I get more information about decommissioning a bore?

G-MW's Drilling Inspector can assist you with information about decommissioning bores. The Drilling Inspector can be contacted between 8.00am and 4.45pm Monday to Friday on telephone: (03) 5826 3440 or mobile: 0419 513 744.

What if I can't get the work completed within the 12 month period of the licence?

If the work has not been completed by the expiry date, the licence will only be renewed once. If works have not been carried out within the licence renewal period, an application for a new licence will be required.

Do I need to advertise my application or notify my neighbours?

No, there is no requirement for notification of neighbouring properties or the wider community where a bore is being constructed solely for the purposes of domestic and stock supply.

When can I drill and construct a bore?

You must engage a licensed driller to drill and construct a new bore or if you are altering an existing bore. Your nominated driller cannot commence drilling until you have obtained a licence to construct works. The licence conditions must be clearly understood by yourself and your nominated driller before drilling is undertaken.

Do I need to notify G-MW when the bore is completed?

Yes, you should forward the form provided with your licence called the Notice of Outcome to G-MW as soon as works are complete. Your licensed driller is responsible for submitting a formal bore completion report to G-MW within 28 days of completion of the works.

What happens after I lodge my application?

After you lodge your application G-MW will notify you in writing that it has been received. The timeframe to complete an assessment will vary depending on the nature of your application. When the decision has been made in relation to your application you will be notified in writing of the outcome, either that the application has been approved or refused. Application fees are not refundable if an application is refused.

What does the application fee cover?

Application fees cover the full cost of undertaking a licence assessment in accordance with G-MW's legal obligations under the Water Act 1989. This includes administering the application and undertaking a full site inspection.

How can I get more information about constructing a bore?

G-MW's Drilling Inspector can assist you with information about constructing bores. The Drilling Inspector can be contacted between 8.00am and 4.45pm Monday to Friday on telephone: (03) 5826 3440 or mobile: 0419 513 744.
